

How far apart should a bedside locker be?

The spacing required between bedside lockers and a bed is determined by its function. If you're using your bedside table for items that you know you'll need to have at your fingertips, then closer is better. You should consider placing it further away from the bed if its primary purpose is for aesthetics only.

How to choose a bedside locker?

But, of course, style is a personal preference. Choose a bedside locker that embodies your personality and is in keeping with your bedroom's decor for a cohesive and seamless flow. Lastly, quantity. You will need to decide on the number of lockers you might need. Again, this is dependent on the available space in your bedroom.

How do you know if a mattress is a bedside locker?

A mattress should be on top of the base to get a true representation of height. Try lying on the bed and reaching over, as you would in the middle of the night perhaps. Can you easily reach anything that sits on it without straining yourself? If it sits too low or too high, then it is not the bedside locker for you.
