

What is the HS code for storage devices?

The specific HS Code for storage devices depends on factors such as the type of device, its power capacity, and application. In general, storage devices like accumulators and batteries are classified under HS Code 8507. This code covers electrical accumulators, including rechargeable batteries, and other devices used to store electrical energy.

What is a power unit HS code?

The power unit HS code plays a crucial role in the classification and regulation of power storage devices, such as accumulators and batteries. The HS code, also known as the Harmonized System Code, is an international standard used for the identification and classification of various products traded across borders.

What is the HS code for batteries?

The HS Code for batteries is typically 8507. It is used to classify batteries and other accumulators in terms of their voltage and energy storage capacity. What is the classification for storage devices under HS Code? Storage devices are classified under different HS Codes depending on their specific type and function.
