

What is a solar panel warranty?

Solar panel warranties vary by manufacturer and type of panel. A standard solar panel warranty should come with at least 10 years of protection. Solar panel warranties typically won't reimburse for labor costs associated with installing new equipment or shipping fees for new equipment.

What is a performance warranty on solar panels?

Conclusion A performance warranty guarantees that the solar panel will not degrade below a certain percentage over a specified period, usually 25 to 30 years. This type of warranty is essential because solar panels naturally degrade over time.

What happens if a solar panel fails within the warranty period?

If a panel fails within the solar panel warranty period, the manufacturer needs to fix it, saving you significant money, and sometimes, it can be thousands of dollars. Also, manufacturers are more likely to produce high-quality solar panels if they know they must stand behind them with solar warranties.

How do I review a solar panel warranty?

When reviewing solar panel warranties, carefully examine the details for potential exclusions or limitations, such as weather damage, vandalism, or improper installation. Confirm the transferability of solar warranties to a new homeowner, enhancing the property value.

What are the different types of solar warranties?

Solar providers offer diverse warranties, with many presenting multiple options concurrently. As of 2024, there are four solar warranties: product, performance, workmanship, and monitoring. We will briefly review each type to help you understand and choose the provider that offers the most comprehensive options.

Are solar panel warranties a good investment?

Understanding and comparing solar panel warranties are crucial steps in your solar investment journey. They not only provide a safety net for your investment but also serve as an indicator of the quality and reliability of the product.
