

Where to hang kitchen towels?

Key Takeaways - Where to hang towels: Hanging kitchen towels near the sink is a great option since they can be accessible for hand-drying. However, make sure that you hang them away from the faucet because by doing this, water can saturate the material. Constant dampness will lead to bacteria build-up.

How do you hang a hand towel under a sink?

If you are the kind of person who just can't stand an exposed hand towel, there are options. The easiest is to mount a towel bar to the back of a cabinet door. Most people choose to do this under the sink because it's conveniently located where you need towels most often. You can also use a towel bar pull-out to hang several towels.

How do you hang towels on a farmhouse sink?

Especially for kitchens with drop-apron farmhouse sinks, draping the towels over the front of the sink can be a perfectly suitable way to hang them. Towels hung in this fashion will dry without wrinkles and will be at ready grasp whenever you need one. But avoid draping damp towels this way if they will hang over wooden base cabinets.
